

Daven Asafo-Agyei is a senior at John Jay College of Criminal Justice (JJC) pursuing a CUNY BS degree for Unique and Interdisciplinary Studies with a concentration in Human Ecology and Planetary Management. He is a current McNair scholar with a research focus on the American government's response to human-caused climate change. He is also a current Ron E. Moelis fellow and scholar with the Office for Student Research & Creativity program. His writing has recently been published in John Jays Finest Vol. 38 and he was the recipient of the 2023 Malcolm/King Leadership Award. Daven works at the Office for Student Research & Creativity at JJC as a Research and Administrative Assistant.

Additionally, Daven is a member of the Black Student Union, Urban Male Initiative, and the Environmental Club here at John Jay. He serves as a mentor for the My Brothers Keeper Program and the treasurer for the Environmental Club. Daven is currently applying to various Ph.D. programs which focus on ecology, evolutionary biology, and sustainability, aspiring to become a changemaker in environmental policy, energy production, environmental stewardship, and planetary management.
